

Topic:

Create a mood board which displays the two sides of your topic.

Research and summarise the key information to support your argument, including facts and statistics.

Produce a campaign poster advertising your argument and convincing others to join your side.

Organise your ideas by creating 3 detailed plans which represent paragraphs for your argument.

Compose a speech or letter which argues your viewpoint.

Topic:

Create a mood board which displays the two sides of your topic.

Research and summarise the key information to support your argument, including facts and statistics.

Produce a campaign poster advertising your argument and convincing others to join your side.

Organise your ideas by creating 3 detailed plans which represent paragraphs for your argument.

Compose a speech or letter which argues your viewpoint.

Topic:

Create a mood board which displays the two sides of your topic.

Research and summarise the key information to support your argument, including facts and statistics.

Produce a campaign poster advertising your argument and convincing others to join your side.

Organise your ideas by creating 3 detailed plans which represent paragraphs for your argument.

Compose a speech or letter which argues your viewpoint.

English Homework

Persuasive Writing Techniques

- Repetition – Using the same word or phrase more than once.
- Rhetorical question – A question with an obvious answer.
- Rule of three – Listing three things or descriptive words.
- Emotive language – Words which make the reader feel an emotion.
- Exaggeration – Describing something as much better or worse than it really is.
- Evidence – Including facts, statistics and opinions.
- Imagery – Using similes, metaphors and personification to describe.
- Personal Pronouns – Using I, we or you to involve the reader.

Name: _____

English Homework

Persuasive Writing Techniques

- Repetition – Using the same word or phrase more than once.
- Rhetorical question – A question with an obvious answer.
- Rule of three – Listing three things or descriptive words.
- Emotive language – Words which make the reader feel an emotion.
- Exaggeration – Describing something as much better or worse than it really is.
- Evidence – Including facts, statistics and opinions.
- Imagery – Using similes, metaphors and personification to describe.
- Personal Pronouns – Using I, we or you to involve the reader.

Name: _____

English Homework

Persuasive Writing Techniques

- Repetition – Using the same word or phrase more than once.
- Rhetorical question – A question with an obvious answer.
- Rule of three – Listing three things or descriptive words.
- Emotive language – Words which make the reader feel an emotion.
- Exaggeration – Describing something as much better or worse than it really is.
- Evidence – Including facts, statistics and opinions.
- Imagery – Using similes, metaphors and personification to describe.
- Personal Pronouns – Using I, we or you to involve the reader.

Name: _____

Homework

You are going to complete a persuasive writing project.

You need to choose a topic and argue either agreeing or disagreeing with it.

Complete the tasks listed on your takeaway book mark.

You are expected to submit 1 piece per week in the order on the checklist, building to you producing a fantastic piece of persuasive writing.

Topics:

- Students shouldn't have to wear school uniform.
- It should be illegal for children under 16 to own a mobile phone.
- As celebrities are role models to children, when they break the law their punishments should be more severe to set an example.
- Downloading music should be free to the public.
- The voting age should be lowered to 16 so that they can contribute to their community.